

IPCC media accreditation FAQs – September 2018

Where can I learn about press accreditation for IPCC meetings?	2
What must I do to become accredited at IPCC meetings?	2
What is the online form?	2
Can I still apply for accreditation as before?	2
I covered previous IPCC meetings. Do I have to apply again?	2
I have a badge from another UN conference. Can I be approved automatically for IPCC conferences with that?	2
What if I am accredited to the United Nations in New York, Geneva, Vienna or Nairobi?	2
When should I accredit myself for IPCC meetings?	2
What is the deadline for accreditation?	3
I missed the deadline. Can I still apply?	3
Is there a limit to how many media may participate in a conference?	3
What happens when the quota is reached?	3
To register with the online form, what information do I need?	3
What do you do with this information?	3
How do I register with the form?	3
How do I get access to materials under embargo?	4
How can I send my credential materials to you?	4
To whom do I address the letter of assignment?	4
What should the letter of assignment contain?	4
I don't have a press card. Will you still accredit me?	4
What do you mean by "additional materials"? What is required?	4
Do I need to send a photo of myself?	5
How soon will I know whether I'm accredited?	5
How can I check the status of my accreditation?	5
What does the accreditation cover?	5
Do I have to tell you what days I will attend ?	6
I would like to register as a delegate or NGO and also have press accreditation. Is this possible?	6
I am a freelance journalist. Can I still get accreditation?	6
I'm a student. Can I get accreditation?	6
I'm under 18 years of age. Can I get accreditation?	6
What about press accreditation for blogs?	6
I am with an independent film company that is producing a documentary on climate change. Can I access the conference?	7
I am a press officer at an Embassy. Do I need press accreditation to attend?	7
Can I do a blanket accreditation from my organization?	7
What happens if I have to replace someone already accredited from my organization?	7
Do you fund journalists' participation?	7
Do you make hotel reservations for press representatives?	7
Will you help me get a visa?	7
My accreditation was approved, now what?	8
Can you send me my badge in advance? Or is there somewhere I can pick it up?	8
What should I do if my badge is lost or stolen?	8
Where am I allowed to go?	8
Can you send me a list of IPCC accredited media persons?	8
I would like to stay informed about IPCC news and events. Can you add me to your mailing list?	8
Disclaimer	8

IPCC media accreditation FAQs – September 2018

Where can I learn about press accreditation for IPCC meetings?

Details about IPCC press accreditation are in this document or in the relevant media advisory. The IPCC Secretariat registration and accreditation system is based on the United Nations criteria for accreditation of media (available in all six UN languages).

What must I do to become accredited at IPCC meetings?

You must register through the IPCC media portal here:

<http://www.ipcc.ch/apps/eventmanager/press/>. Credentials can be uploaded as PDF, JPG and PNG format.

What is the online form?

It allows users to provide basic data for identification and upload the required credentials in order to be registered as media representatives to a specific IPCC opening session or press conference. It also allows users to request access to embargoed materials.

Can I still apply for accreditation as before?

Accreditation through this system is the only official channel to obtain registration for the media. The IPCC Secretariat will not accept accreditations via any other channel. Any accreditation materials not sent through this system will not be processed.

I covered previous IPCC meetings. Do I have to apply again?

Yes. Press badges issued at previous IPCC meetings do not remain valid. Members of the press must be accredited for each meeting. A new letter of assignment and copy of press card (or other materials in lieu of a press card) will be required each time in order to be registered and/or receive access to embargoed materials.

I have a badge from another UN conference. Can I be approved automatically for IPCC conferences with that?

The fact that you've been accredited to another UN conference can help the accreditation team in evaluating your application; however, it does not guarantee accreditation for IPCC press conferences and embargoed material and you must register through the IPCC media portal here: <http://www.ipcc.ch/apps/eventmanager/press/>.

What if I am accredited to the United Nations in New York, Geneva, Vienna or Nairobi?

Please submit with your credentials a scan of your accreditation badge. We can approve your accreditation on this basis, as an alternative to a press card, upon verifying with our colleagues in these duty stations. The letter of assignment is still required.

When should I accredit myself for IPCC meetings?

Accreditation will open up to one month prior to the meeting. It is strongly advisable to apply for accreditation in advance to avoid any unnecessary delays at the meeting venue. Only accredited media representatives will be provided access to the IPCC opening sessions and press conferences, and to embargoed material.

IPCC media accreditation FAQs – September 2018

What is the deadline for accreditation?

The IPCC Secretariat will make deadline information available on the website. As a rule, however, it is highly recommended to apply as early as possible. There is no guarantee that the IPCC media team will review late applications.

I missed the deadline. Can I still apply?

The IPCC Secretariat has limited capacity to deal with late applications. Decisions whether to process late applications will be made on a case-by-case basis.

Is there a limit to how many media may participate in a conference?

Yes. A quota on the number of participants may be enforced in the interest of security and safety. The quota is in place until the maximum level in relation to the physical capacity of the facilities is reached.

What happens when the quota is reached?

The moment the quota is reached, no more representatives will be allowed in.

To register online, what information do I need?

In order to complete the process you will need the following information. All information must be entered as it appears in the passport or other official photo identification document, which the participant intends to present at the registration desk.

- Complete name
- Email address
- City
- Nationality
- Scanned copies of your credentials. The system will allow 2 files maximum 4MB
- Phone number

In addition you will need to provide your affiliation and position and indicate which events you plan to attend as well as whether you would like to access embargoed materials.

What do you do with this information?

The names and information entered are for purposes of identification and verification only, and for the preparation of media badges.

How do I register with the form?

Please go to the IPCC media portal to access the online form, which allows you to provide your personal details and upload your credentials. On the IPCC media portal, follow the following steps:

- Click “Request Access”
- Fill in the “Request Access” form:
 - Select the event;
 - Select from the following options: opening session; press conference; embargo. You can also choose one, two or all three options;
 - Upload your credentials;
- Click “Request Access” to submit the form.

IPCC media accreditation FAQs – September 2018

Once your request has been processed you will receive an email with an a document you should take with you and present at the registration desk to pick up your badge. You will need to make sure that the barcode on that document is not folded.

If you requested embargo, you will receive another email with your personal log-in details.

If you have used the system before, the e-mail that you will receive will indicate that you should use “Your global IPCC password”, which refers to your previous password. In case you have lost it, please click “Forgot password” on the IPCC media portal.

How do I get access to materials under embargo?

Media representatives who want access to the embargoed materials must tick the option for “embargo” on the online form, regardless of whether they are registering to attend the press conference or not. You will also need to submit your credentials and agree to the IPCC embargo conditions.

How can I send my credential materials to you?

Materials should be uploaded on the IPCC media portal and submitted together with the online form. The system will allow 2 files maximum 4MB. Files can be in PDF, JPG or PNG formats.

To whom do I address the letter of assignment?

To the IPCC Press Office.

What should the letter of assignment contain?

The letter of assignment must be on letterhead and be addressed to the IPCC Press Office. It must be signed by an authorized official (e.g. the Publisher, Assignment Editor or Bureau Chief), of the media organization seeking accreditation. Unsigned letters or e-mails will not be accepted. Letters of assignment must specify the type of coverage, event or project assigned; the period of time for which accreditation is required; and the name and professional function(s) of the individual(s) to be assigned.

If you work as a photographer or as part of a TV crew you are asked also to indicate this on the letter of assignment so that the IPCC can plan sufficient space for the conference you wish to attend. Please also state any special requirements, e.g. for TV crews.

I don't have a press card. Will you still accredit me?

If you don't have a press card, you will be asked to submit additional materials, in line with the UN criteria.

What do you mean by “additional materials”? What is required?

If you are asked to submit additional materials, the materials detailed below may be requested. Please note that submitted work samples must demonstrate active engagement in covering the activities of the United Nations and/or climate issues. Samples must be unaltered clippings or media products of the bona fide organization with bylines of the individual requesting accreditation.

IPCC media accreditation FAQs – September 2018

- Print media representatives are required to submit two bylined articles published within the past four months and a copy of the publication. These may be scanned PDF files or links to the article online.
- Radio and TV media representatives are asked to submit two recordings of reports made within the past four months.
- Photographers are required to submit original tear sheets or photos with credits of the issuing organization. It is also possible to provide links to photos online, as long as the photo attribution is clearly that of the applicant.
- Online media must meet the following requirements (subject to all other criteria, online media may include news outlets, blogs, vlogs and others):
 - The web publication must belong to a registered media organization and have a specific, verifiable, street address and telephone number.
 - The website must have at least 60% original news content or commentary or analysis, including coverage of international or UN related issues.
 - The website must be updated at a minimum of three times a week.
 - The applicant seeking accreditation must provide the latest data on the site's visitors or other relevant material (press citations, etc.) about the outlet's audience. The applicant must have an established record of having written extensively on international or climate change issues and must present copies of three recently published articles with his/her byline.

Please note that publications or other media that are communications, outreach or advocacy publications of non-governmental or non-profit organizations do not qualify for media accreditation.

Do I need to send a photo of myself?

No photo is required.

How soon will I know whether I'm accredited?

Please be aware that we expect to receive credentials for a large number of applicants and there may be a delay between the time we receive your credentials and when they are matched to your application.

Every effort will be made to confirm registration as soon as possible.

How can I check the status of my accreditation?

If you need to check the status of your registration, please email ipcc-media@wmo.int.

What does the accreditation cover?

Media accreditation may only be used for coverage of specific IPCC conferences and/or for accessing material under embargo for these conferences. It does not constitute an endorsement for any other purpose.

IPCC media accreditation FAQs – September 2018

Do I have to tell you what days I will attend?

When granted, accreditation covers all periods where the conference is open to the press (IPCC conferences are generally closed to the public apart from the opening session). We ask you to indicate on the online form which events – opening session and/or press conference – you plan to attend.

I would like to register as a delegate or observer and also have press accreditation. Is this possible?

No. Double accreditation is not allowed (e.g. as press and delegate, or as press and observer). If you are already registered with a delegation or observer organization, your application for press accreditation will not be granted.

I am a freelance journalist. Can I still get accreditation?

Freelance journalists are subject to the same requirements for accreditation and must complete the full process, as above. Freelance journalists, including photographers, must provide clear evidence that they are on assignment from a specific news organization or publication. A valid assignment letter from that news organization or publication is required. Photographic agencies must provide clear evidence from a client news organization or publication. You must also submit the other required documents for accreditation.

I'm a student. Can I get accreditation?

Media accreditation is for professional members of the press who represent a bona fide media organization. We cannot accord students the same accreditation as is granted to media professionals who have an established track record of reporting.

I'm under 18 years of age. Can I get accreditation?

No. Media representatives must be at least 18 years old to apply for accreditation and have an established track record of reporting.

What about press accreditation for blogs?

In line with the criteria for United Nations accreditation of media, online media may include news outlets, blogs, vlogs, and others and must meet the following requirements, in addition to any other media accreditation requirements:

- The website must belong to a recognized media organization and have a specific, verifiable street address and a telephone number.
- The website must have at least 60 % original news content or commentary or analysis, including coverage of international or U.N. issues.
- The applicant must have an established record of having written extensively on international or climate change issues and must present copies of three recently published articles with his/her byline.
- The website must be updated at a minimum of three times a week.

IPCC media accreditation FAQs – September 2018

I am with an independent film company that is producing a documentary on climate change. Can I access the conference?

As per the criteria for United Nations accreditation of media, independent TV production companies are required to provide a letter from a broadcast organization or film distributor that has committed to air or distribute the work, or from the UN partner organization that supports the production. The project should be climate change-related. You must also submit the other required documents for accreditation.

I am a press officer at an Embassy. Do I need press accreditation to attend?

No. Your name should be included on the official delegation list and you will be registered as a member of the delegation.

Can I do a blanket accreditation from my organization?

It is not possible to give blanket press accreditation to a media organization. Instead, accreditation is granted to individuals representing bona fide media organizations, who provide the required valid documentation for accreditation.

What happens if I have to replace someone already accredited from my organization?

We are aware that assignments can change at short notice. Please communicate changes in staff as soon as they are known. The applicant will have to complete the same process, but as long as they have the required valid materials, there is usually little delay in processing.

Do you fund journalists' participation?

Unfortunately we do not.

Do you make hotel reservations for press representatives?

No. Media representatives accredited to cover IPCC meetings are responsible for their own travel and hotel bookings. The Secretariat is not in a position to make these arrangements.

Will you help me get a visa?

The IPCC Secretariat is not in a position to issue invitation letters for visa purposes. You may use the confirmation of your accreditation when making your visa application, as well as the letter of assignment from your media organization.

IPCC media accreditation FAQs – September 2018

My accreditation was approved, now what?

Once you have received confirmation of your accreditation, you will be registered for the conference. Print out the confirmation and bring it with you to the conference. Bringing the print-out will speed up your registration process. You may collect your badge on site at the registration desk at the conference venue, either on the morning of the opening session or on the morning of the press conference, or the evening before. The exact times will be indicated on the media advisories specific to the events that you applied for. The media accreditation desk in the conference centre is not open at other times and media do not have access to the conference centre. You must present a valid photo ID with the personal details used in your registration. Your press card and letter of assignment will speed up the process.

Can you send me my badge in advance? Or is there somewhere I can pick it up?

For security reasons, it is not possible to send badges in advance. Badges should be collected in person at the registration desk at the conference venue.

What should I do if my badge is lost or stolen?

If your media badge is lost or stolen, you MUST immediately report it to the IPCC Secretariat.

Where am I allowed to go?

For those sessions that are open to the press, generally the opening session of the meeting and the final press conference, accredited press have access to clearly designated areas in the conference venue. Specific information on media arrangements at conferences is provided through Media Advisories. These are issued at individual meetings, and reflect arrangements as they apply to a given venue and/or set of circumstances. All accredited press accessing the conference premises must pass through security screening, including those with equipment.

Can you send me a list of IPCC accredited media persons?

Information on media accreditation for IPCC meetings is for internal use only and confidential. The IPCC Secretariat does not publish or distribute media lists.

I would like to stay informed about IPCC news and events. Can you add me to your mailing list?

If you wish to be added to the IPCC's media mailing list, send a message to ipcc-media@wmo.int. You can also follow @IPCC_CH on Twitter, where all relevant announcements are posted.

Disclaimer

The IPCC reserves the right to deny or withdraw accreditation for activities that violate the principles of the Charter or the codes of behaviour and or/ethics of journalism and/or the United Nations. At any time, the IPCC Secretariat may revoke accreditation if it is put to improper use; if it has been used to abuse the privileges so extended; or if personal or public conduct is not consistent with the best interest of the Organization. The press pass must not be lent to another person; UN Security will confiscate any pass in the possession of any individual to whom it was not issued

